

Sharing Your Findings for Future Gardeners

You've worked hard on making a decision around your "Should We" question in the garden, now it's time to share with others! Make a plan to communicate what your "Should We" question was, what options you considered, what evidence you've found, what your decision is (for now), and what you think we should do moving forward. This chart will help keep track of all of the ideas and evidence that you've collected so far.

Our garden task _____	Our "Should We" question: _____ _____
What methods did we consider?	Method 1: Method 2: Method 3: Method 4 (do nothing):
What garden method did we apply?
Who does this decision help or harm?	This decision affects the more-than-humans in this place because:
	How does this decision affect our garden as a whole?

Does this garden method application need to be monitored and adjusted? Who will do this? How often will this need to be done?

How will we observe the results of this application or applied garden practice over time?

How will we document any changes in the garden: Adverse effects? Positive changes? No changes?
